Hi, April, we'll produce non-privileged documents in response to properly served requests for production and after entry of a suitable protective order. We're not required to produce documents with initial disclosures.

When the time comes for production, I believe we provide them to you on disc, but I will double check on that.

Leita

Hi Leita,

I hope that you are well.

I am following up on the email message that forwarded Netflix's initial disclosures. The disclosures reference certain non-privileged documents and materials as available for inspection.

What would be the simplest way of arranging for duplication of these materials so that I don't have to travel to view them?

Thank you,
April
